TUVALU MONTHLY AND SEASONAL OUTLOOK NOVEMBER 2026 TO JANUARY 2027

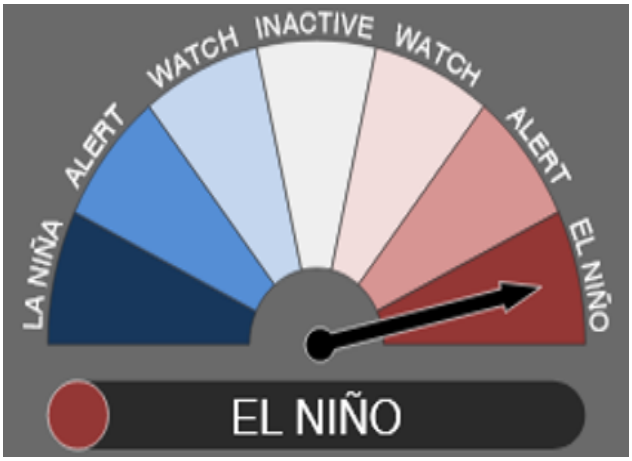

Ministry of Public Works, Infrastructures, Development and Water

SUMMARY

- The El Niño continues to strengthen in the tropical pacific oceans, and this become the strongest El Nino on record.
- The rainfall outlook generally indicated above normal to below normal rainfall during both period November 2026 and November 2026 to January 2027.
- Minimum and Maximum temperatures across Tuvalu are very likely to be above normal during November 2026 and November 2026 to January 2027.

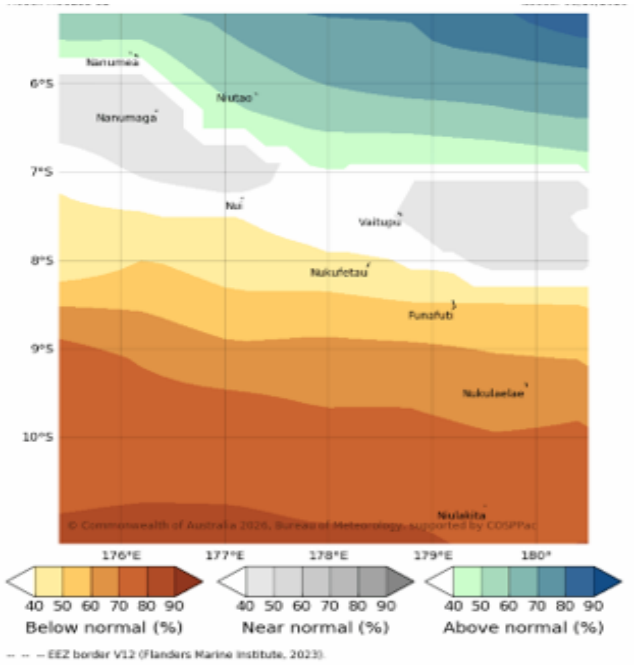

EL- NINO SOUTHERN OSCILLATION (ENSO)

- El Niño is current reached the very strongest status and continues to strengthen toward the end of this year 2026 and persists into early 2027.
- Relative-Niño 3.4 values are forecast to reach levels above the warmest observed since reliable records began in 1950, with the majority of models indicating a peak value above +3.0 °C.
- All models, including the bureau's, forecast the tropical Pacific to continue warming through the southern hemisphere.
- A strong El Niño signal in the Niño 3.4 region does not necessarily mean strong impacts on Tuvalu's climate. ENSO is one of the many factors that can influence Tuvalu's seasonal weather and climate pattern
